

LABET

WINERY PROFILE

Francois Labet is a very energetic fourth generation French wine merchant. His family has owned and operated the highly respected Chateau de La Tour estate in Veugeot since 1922. Today's wine buyer insists on outstanding quality at reasonable prices. In order to "buy right" in France, you must have someone who has the knowledge and contacts to find the very best grapes at the very best prices year after year. Francois Labet has the expertise gained not only from his many years in the wine trade but also from the generations of experience of his family. If a product carries the Labet label you can rest assured that the product in the bottle is a quality wine and a great value.

Pinot Noir

The Pinot Noir is the noble grape used to make the highly respected red wines of Burgundy. Only recently have French producers started labeling their wines Pinot Noir. This wine is aged in oak barrels to add balance and complexity. It has many of the outstanding qualities of a fine French Burgundy at an everyday price.

Merlot

This is without a doubt the country's hottest varietal wine. Why? Try this wine and see. It is smooth and well balanced with more body and complexity than you would expect from a wine at this price. This is an outstanding value, a wine to drink everyday.
